FOR GOLD AND SILVER

New York Democracy Opposed to Monometallism in Either Metal.

INTERNATIONAL ACTION IS NECESSARY

Action of the United States Alone Would

Letard and Perhaps Destroy the Success of the Movement for the Restoration of the White Metal.

Saratoga, N. Y., June 25.-Mr. Whitney is the only prominent democrat who did not leave town within a few hours of the adjournment of the convention. He remained over until to-day. The Tammany delegation left on their special train at 6:30 p.m. Senator Hill went back to Albany about the same time. But for the early summer visitors the town would be deserted to-day. The convention was one of the shortest and most harmonious in the history of the democracy, and the delegates to the national convention at Chicago were selected and the declaration on the issues of the campaign set forth. Senator David B-Hill, William C. Whitney, ex-Gov. Roswell P. Flower and other demoerats of more than local fame sat as regular delegates and had more or less to do with shaping the work of the onvention. The main interest centered in the financial plank which was constructed for use at Chicago. It declares for the use of both gold and silver at a ratio to be fixed by international agreement, which the party pleages its best efforts to bring about. It condemás free coinage of silver alone without agreement with other nations and insists that the present gold standard be maintained and the public credit preserved. Tariff for revenue only is advocated and the Cleveland administration endorsed. The unit rule of voting at pational conventions is orged and the delegates to Chicago are instructed to oppose any change in the requirement that nominations be made by a two-third vote. The attendsince was not large and from the time chairman John Boyd Thatcher called the convention to order at noon, until its final adjournment shortly after 4 o'clock, the only exciting incident was the retirement of the Shepardites from King's county when they were refused recognition. The delegates-at-large selected to represent New York at Chicago are: Senators David B. Hill and Edward Murphy, ex-Gov. Roswell P. Flower and Frederick R. Coudert.

Main Points in the Platform. The main points in the platform, which was presented by Senator Hill, follow: "It would be folly to ignore and impossible to exaggerate the gravity of the conditions under which this convention assembles. Most of the other states of the Union have selected and commissioned their delegates to the national democratic convention. By a movement evidently concerted, but, as we believe, ill-advised and ill-considered, instructions have been given to the delegations of a large number of states having for their aim and purpose the adoption of a new policy and a new platform for the democratic party. No opportunity for a fair and deliberate consideration of such policy has been given the democracy of the state of New York. Upon such new matter thus proposed to be incorporated among the tenets of the party it becomes the duty of the demo rats of Law York, representing their people, to speak in no equivocal terms. Gold and silverthe money of the constitution and of our fathers-each at a parity with the other in purchasing power, has been the platform of principles proclaimed by every national democratic conven-

Co-operation Is Necessary.

"The action of a republican congress and a republican president deprived silver of its equality with gold for the money and currency of the nation, and from the action of other nations following the same course, it has resulted that silver has greatly declined in commercial value, bringing disturbance to the financial systems of European countries as well as to our own The restoration of the equilibrium of the two metals thus disturbed is a problem the solution of which is of the greatest consequence to the prosperity of both this country and of Europe. but is wholly beyond our power without the co-operation of other nations. Such co-operation, by the united efforts of statesmen and wage earners here and elsewhere, is believed to be near at hand, and to be possible to secure by earnest and well directed effort. Free coinage of silver by the United States alone can have no other effect than to change our present standard to one of silver, now a depreciated coin, and to retard, perhaps destroy forever. the success of the movement now general throughout the civilized countries for the re-toration of feee bimetallic coinage in the principal mints of the world. The proposition to separate ourselves from the great nations of the world and adopt the monetary standard of Mexico and China does not comport with the pride and financial dighity of New York or the United States. For these reasons and with these convictions, the democrats of New York tandard money or the country and opnose gold monometallism on the one hand or silver monometallism on the other hand. The pledge contained in the repeal of the Sherman law should be faithfully carried out, wherein it was declared that the efforts of the government should be steadily directed to the establishment of such a safe system of bimetallism as will main tain at all times the equal power of every dollar coined or issued by the United States in the markets and in the payment of debts." SHARKEY NOT IN IT.

Sadly Punished in a Four-Round Drawn

Contest with Corbett.

San Francisco, June 25.—The fourround contest between Jim Corbett. ex-champion pugilist of the world, and Tom Sharkey, the latest aspirant for the title, drew an enormous crowd to Mechanic's pavilion last night. Betting was 10 to 8 that Corbett would not stop Sharkey. There was no Corbett money in sight at these odds. Corbett was seconded by Billy Delaney, Jim Carr and George Green. Sharkey's seconds were Danny Needham, Tim McGrath, and Paddy Ryan of Vallejo. Both men were called to the center of the ring and given instructions by Referee Carr at 10:45.

Second round-Sharkev is aggressive and swings wildly. Sharkey clinches Corbett and holds on. It is now a wrestling match. Sharkey, to avoid pun shment, throws his arms around Corbett repeatedly. Corbett lands on Sharkey's chest and face and hits at will. The sailor is very tired at the conclusion of the round.

Round three-Sharkey comes up with a jump and rushes the champion. Corbett was ready for him and got in a stiff punch on the chest. After a few feints Corbett reaches Sharkey with his right. A rapid exchange near the ropes followed. Corbett appercuts with his right and follows with several smashes on the chest, and wind. The sailor fights desperately and lands on the champion, but not effectively. Just as the gong sounds the men are at it hammer and tongs.

Round four - Sharkey leads and Cornett ducks cleverly. Both men elinch. Sharkey strikes viciously at Corbett and a short mix-up and a clinch follow. Referee unable to separate fighters. Sharkey fighting viciously. He throws Corbett heavily. There is little or no leading done and the men finish the round in a clinch. Referee declares contest a draw. Sharkey's right eye is closed while Corbett is without a scratch. After the call of time it required three policemen to keep Sharkey from Corbett. Sharkey struggling in his corner and Corbett protesting to the Referee.

CAPT. DICKMAN'S HEARING. How the Laurada Landed Men and Munitions of War in Cuba.

Philadelphia, June 25.—Capt. Dickman, of the steamer Laurada, who was recently arrested at the instance of Dr Longosto, the Spanish consul in this city, on the charge of engaging in a Cuban filibustering expedition, was given a hearing yesterday afternoon before United States Committeener Bell. After several witnesses had no n examined the hearing was contact t until to-morrow noon in order to give the government time to secure additional testimony. John Homes, a sailor, swore that while the Laurida was at New York Capt. Morton, who had charge of the Commodor · expedition, came on board. Others who came on board were Mr. Hart, Col. Nunez and two other men. Hart, he said, went on shore soon, but the others accompanied the ship to Montauk Point, at the eastern end of Long Island, Two turs brought two lighters alongside. One lighter carried about 100 Cubans, and the other was loaded with war material and dynamite. At Montauk Point Col. Nunez left the Laurada with final instructions to Capt. Morton to "Get away as quickly as he could." The Laurada then sailed for Cuba and the Cubans donned uniforms, Irilled, fired their guns and said they were "going to Cuba to fight of liberiv." The witness stated that the men, arms and ammunition were landed on the coast of Cuba. It required four of the boats to take the men ashore, he sud, while another boat conveyed the cens, dynamite and flags. The witness white giving his testimony ocea-Stoudly referred to a slip of paper, and upon crossex imination he hesitatingly admitted that upon this paper he had kept the run of the voyage, so that he could testify afterwards. Holmes' testimony was corroborated by Octavius D. Weyman, a sailor, from New

New York, June 25.—The steamer Panama, just arrived, brought the body of Jose Sabates Costa, aged 54, a manusacturer of Cuba, who nied on the trip of heart disease.

ENGLANDWEAKENING SILVER MEN'S

Radical Departure from Her Ultimatum Methods.

SEEKS THE GOOD OFFICES OF OLNEY

Wants This Government To Endeavor To Secure the Release of Crown Surveyor Harrison Under Arrest in Venezueia.

Washington, June 25.-As soon as Secretary Olney returns to the state department, and he is confidently expected to-day, he will receive from Sir Julian Paunoefote, the British ambassador, a request from the British government to use his good offices with Venezuela to secure the release from imprisonment of Crown Surveyor Harrison, who is reported to have been arrested by Venezuelan police while he was engaged in constructing a road connecting the Barima and Cuyuni rivers in the disputed territory. This action of Great Britain is considered in diplomotic circles a radical departure from the ultimatum methods hitherto practiced on American republics. and much significance is attached to this fact as probably indicating the considerable progress made towards an arbitration agreement and the practical acknowle igement that the United States is a party in interest in the Venezuelan dispute, as well as in future controversies regarding territory on the American continent. While it is universally admitted that the new incident is exceedingly unfortunate just at this juncture, there is great di versity of opinion in fixing the blame. Even the British government has the most indefinite knowledge of the exact locality where the arrest took place, although it is claimed that the sarveying party had no authority to go outside of territory occupied exclusively by Englishmen for the past ten Venezuelans Pleased.

No official knowledge of the arrest has yet been received at the Venezuelan legation, where confidence is expressed that the Venezuelan government would have sent a notice of the affair, perhaps for the information of the United States government, the moment the facts became known at Caraeas. The Venezuelans, however, find considerable satisfaction in the information that Great Britain will appeal to Secretary Olney in the matter as indicating that it is not considered of so serious a nature as at first apprehended. They place the whole blame for whatever has occurred on Joseph Chamberlain's aggressive colonial policy. They point to the fact that under date of December 19, 1894, they complained to Secretary Gresham of the proposed road upon which Surveyor Harrison was employed and called attention to the fact that as the route lay in Venezuelan territorry a conflict would be unavoidable.

UNITY OF THE CHURCH. An Important Papal Encyclical Soon To Be Issued.

Rome, June 25 .- The papal encyclical on the unity of the church and the supremacy of the see of Rome will shortly be issued. The Latin document is now complete, and its translation into various languages is awaited so that they may appear simultaneously with the original text. The document is a lengthy one, and is a doctrival work in which the pope's intentions is to prove the supremacy of the papal see by numerous quotations arawn from the Greek fathers and encient Oriental liturgy. Copies of the eneverical will be forwarded to all reigning sovereigns, and also to the heads of dissenting churches, because the leading aim of the document is to bring about the union of the various churenes with that of Rome, and to show why this union is necessary. The pope starts from the fundamental principle that the church must be one. and sets forth the essential features. of unity of doctrine and of faith. His holiness makes an appeal to all well-wishers of humanity to work for

Indianapolis, June 25.-The democratic convention yesterday which nominated a state ticket, adopted a platform declaring for free silver without international agreement, and selected delegates to the Chicago convention was the largest, most noisy and at times the most disorderly in the history of the state. Seventy-five per cent of the members were silver men and they resisted every move made by the gold men with hoots and hisses and pandemonium almost constantly prevailed. The platform is as follows: "We reasirm our adherence to and faith in the democratic doctrine of bimetalism, and therefore we demand the immediate restoration of bimetallism by the free and unrestricted coinage of both silver and gold as primary money at the ratio of 16 to 1 without awaiting the co-operation of Great Britain or any foreign power, all such coinage to be full legal tender in payment of all debts, public and private. Resolved, that we believe the existing tariff iaws will be fully equal to all demand for needed revenue for the expenses of government economically administered under the conditions which will rise from the restoration of bimetallism. After the adoption of the platform ex-Congressman Bynum attempted to address the convention and an uproar followed.

Wild Scene of Disorder.

Chairman Bell ordered the aisles cleared and this only added to the confusion and uproar which lasted for fully half an hour while the chairman railed at the police service and the delegates howled themselves boarse. Major Winfred, a silver man of Evansville, was relling from the stage to have Bynum put out and finally jumped down to where the ex-congressman stood with the intention of doing it himself, but the police interfered and there was no altercation. Finally when everybody was tired out, excongressman John E. Lamb. a silver deregate, moved that Bynum be given hve minutes of time and order was finally restored. A roll call was taken on this motion which was carried by a slight majority. When Mr. Bynum took the stage he was greeted with hoots, hisses and cheers. He first explained that under the rules of the convention he had a right to be heard. and then read the amendment which he had intended to offer. This was to strike out the financial plank adopted at the Chicago convention in 1892. After reading this he declared that Grover Cleveland was for sound money and that ninety per cent. of the democrats o: Indiana were for Grover Cleveland still. This was greeted with such a storm of hoots and howls that nothing further could be heard. The convention would not listen to another word and Bynum was finally compelled to retire The convention then proceeded to nominate a governor, and on the first ballot B. F. Shively of South Bend was nominated.

Ohio Democrats Silver-Mad.

Columbus, O. June 25,-Ohio democrats are silver-mad. This was clearly demonstrated at the state convention yesterday. A single-plank platform declaring for the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1 without international agreement was adopted by a vote of 542 to 128 and the delegates to Chicago were rigidly instructed to vote as a unit and only for candidates for president and vice-president who are known to be in hearty accord with the free silver cause. The gold standard men made a stubborn tight, but were beaten at every turn. Neither the temporary nor permanent chairman referred to any other subject than silver in their speeches. If delegate Reuben Turner had not been cried down when he made an uncomplimentary remark about President Cleveland he would have moved that a large picture of Cleveland that hung in the hall be re-

The Divided Texas Democracy.

Austin, Tex., June 25.-The Texas democratic silver convention, after a long wrangle, adopted a platform declaring for the free coinage of silver as 16 to 1 irrespective of international action. The delegates to the Chicago convention were instructed to vote for Band, if in their judgment at Chicago he proves the most available free silver democrat. He was declared to be the choice of the democracy of Texas. The tion Charles R. Skinner. ARMENIAN RELIEF WORK. Many Persons Obliged To Subsist on Grass and Roots.

New York, June 25.-The national Armenian relief committee has received a cable dispatch from its agents in eastern Turkey which says: "Extreme need in Harpoot, Diarbekir and adjacent regions. Funds almost exhausted. Many people obliged to subsist on grass and roots. We have brought them through the winter and must not leave them to perish." The following was received from Aintab under date of May 21: "There are hopeful changes for the better. Twenty-seven Armenians who have been in prison for over three months charged simply with political offenses have been released. Some witnesses have been telling the facts in open court and it has produced a sensation not often seen in Turkish courts. The prosecutors are put in a very awkward position. Difference of opinion and policy among the Moslems seems to be growing and the party favorable to justice and fair dealing is apparently gaining strength. I think special persecution of the Armenians is likely to relax, but the whole country seems dangerously near to anarchy."

THE SCIENTIFIC BUREAUS. Changes Contemplated in the System of Appointments. Washington, June 25.—Some changes in the competitive system of appointment as related to the scientific bureaus of the agricultural department are now under consideration, and may be announced in a few days. The system of special examinations for scientific positions has not proved satisfactory. Besides being troublesome and expensive these examinations put a premium upon the narrowly educated specialist and do not sufficiently recognize experience and intellectual breadth. The reforms proposed are: a permanent list of eligibles, based on lines of broader scientific training, a longer period of apprenticeship for those who are taken into the scientific bureaus, so that the higher positions need never be filled directly from the special examination, but by promotion on basis of examination of tried assistants. A closer relation with the scientife schools of the country is desired, that the public service may get the benefit of the broadest training, at the same time offering an opening for the best students.

ARBITRATION DOCUMENTS.

To Be Made Public Simultaneously by Great Britain and the United States. London, June 25 - The St. James' Gazette says that Great Britain and the United States have agreed to publish simultaneously, within a fortnight, all the arbitration correspondence exchanged between the governments of the two countries. The publication of this matter has been delayed while awaiting the arrival in London of Secretary Olney's latest communication, which was handed to Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British ambassador at Washington, early in the present week. This, it says, is in Mr. Olney's most incisive style and forms one of the most important documents of the series. The paper states that no definite conclusions have been reached as vet, though considerable progress has been made towards a general treaty of arbitration between the two countries.

LIBERAL VICTORY IN CANADA. Mr. McMillin Relieves Great Good to the

United States Will Result. Washington, June 25.-Mr. McMillin of Tennessee, who is one of the democratic members of the ways and means committee, is greatly pleased with the liberal victory in Canada. It satisfies him that Canada, like the United States, is inclined to more liberal tariff laws: that Tuesday's elections means greater freedom between the human race in their commercial relations. Now that the liberals will soon be in power, more liberal laws of intercourse between Canada and the United States must follow.

CORNELL'S VICTORY

Splendid Work of the Freshmen Crews at Poughkeepsie.

IT WAS A VERY EXCITING RACE

Harvard a Close Second with Pennsylvania Only Three-Quarters of a Length Behind-Columbia Badly Beaten.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 25,-Cor-nell's freshmen won the four-cornered freshmen race yesterday afternoon, defeating Harvard by a length and a quarter, in 10 minutes and 18 seconds. Harvard was three-quarters of a length in front of Pennsylvania. while Columbia, which was never dangerous, was beaten off ten lengths. Columbia and Harvard got slightly the best of what was only a fair start, Cornell getting off third, while University of Pennsylvania got away very badly. It only took a few strokes to determine the position of Columbia and the few followers of the blue and white on the observation train felt a sinking feeling at their hearts as they saw their hopes drop in the rear position. Pennsylvania made up leeway quickly and to the half mile mark it was a desperate race for the lead between Cornell and Harvard, with Pennsylvania rapidly closing the gap. Nose and nose the boats which carried the hopes of the crimson and red and white raced together, and the wet and weary crowd on the oars forgot their discomfort in the excitement of the struggle. At the half mile the Harvard boat's nose was just in front of the Cornell shell, Pennsylvania were hanging on the stern of the red and white and Columbia were laboring in distress a length in the rear of the Quakers. Off Pennsylvania's quarters a cheer from the Ithacan delegation announced that Cornell had shot her canvas in front of the crimson.

A Grand Finish.

Steadily the hoves of the supporters. of the red and white rose as the Ithacans settled down to their work and forged ahead half a length. Faster and faster the Cornell shell shot through the water as Carter quickenedthe stroke. Then the desperate race between the crimson and red and blue for second place commenced. Pennsylvania gained a little and Harvard put forth an extra effort. Both boats fairflew through the water, and when at a mile and a half Cornell swerved slightly towards the center of the stream it looked for a moment as if the two who were fighting between themsalves might get upon the leader. Inch by inch the Quakers gained on Harvard until half a mile from home the two were level and racing after Cornell. Opposite Cornell's boathouse the Ithacans were a clear length in front of Pennsylvania and Harvard, who were rowing bow and bow in a desperate race. The Harvard coxswain shouted at his men for a final effort and the crimsons bow was seen forging in front of the Quakers' canvas. The steamboats and yachts set up a salute of whistles and cannons as the Cornell crew swept towards the finish line a length and a quarter ahead of Harvard, who were three-quarters of a length in front of the Quakers. Columbia came in completely played out ten lengths.

SURKENDERED.

They called her the daughter of the confederacy in that southern city. She has a daughter of her own now, who should, of course, be called the granddaughter of the confederacy, but probably isn't. That, however, is anticipating.

The daughter of a cause so long dead. could not have been so young and beautiful. She must have been the child of a memory, that grows more beautiful with each year, and knows a new youth with each succeeding generation.

She was very beautiful the day that Howard Pearce saw her. He sat on the window ledge of his second-story office -he was a young lawyer from the north-and looked down upon company K. --- Tennessee national guards, lined up at "parade rest." He knew their captain, Saunders, who was also a lawyer, and whose office adjoined Pearce's. It was annual encampment time, and K company was about to go to the grounds at the foot of the ridge. "Order-Harms!" commanded Capt.

Company K moved off up the street As the last four swung into the column, there came a clatter of hoofs on the pavement, and a girl rode past the company and took her place at its head, saluting the captain gravely and with ceremony.

"What a beautiful girl!" Pearce exclaimed.

She wore a gray riding habit, with a double row of brass buttons leading up to two black stars on the collar. On her sunny locks a small gray slouch hat rested, tilted just the least bit over one eye. She rode well.

Pearce leaned so far from the window to catch a parting glimpse of the girl in gray that he almost fell. The crowd had dispersed, and the young lawyer returned to his desk. It was a warm day toward the end of July, and he was not sorry that he had no business on hand that must be rushed. He reflected that as almost everyone had gone to the camp ground, there was no reason for remaining in the office, which the little breeze that stirred outdoors carefully avoided.

Evidently, the girl in gray had gone to the camp ground. And with Saunders. But Saunders was married; happily married, Pearce hoped. Anyhow, he was glad that Saunders was married. That evening he sat before Capt. Saunders' tent, with the captain, his wife and Miss Moore-the girl in gray. To the east of the camp ground the ridge rose in a gentle slope. To the southwest, seemingly towering just over them, was the mountain.

Pearce's heart beat faster as the thought came to him that 30 years before white tents marked the foot of the ridge as they did that day. But then they had stretched for miles north and

"Captain," he said, turning to Saunders, "it is easier to get up the ridge than it was once. There are no men in gray there to-night." "No," the captain replied; "but the sons of some of those men are there," pointing to the company street, in which blue-clad figures lounged. al? Without doubt. Listen!"

The bands, which had united for the evening concert, had just struck up 'The Star Spangled Banner," When the air was recognized, a cheer arose from the tented wood.

"Hear that?" said the captain. "Wait," said the girl in gray.

"For what?" Pearce asked.

"They will play 'Dixie' after awhile."

"What then?" "Then they will yell," she said, looking at him with a bright smile and nodding a confident "You'll see-or hear," And he did. When the national air was finished there was a brief wait. Then the quick, stirring notes of "Dixie" started the woods into life with sharp echoes, which were drowned by one long, loud yell. Pearce looked at the girl to receive an

Miss Moore said that she must go back to town.

"As it is late, I shall have to leave my horse with you, captain. I shall send for him to-morrow. I reckon I can walk to the train in this rig."

She looked down somewhat doubtfully at her riding skirt. Pearce said that he would be glad to go with her, and though it was not apparent in just what way he could overcome the disadvantage of the long dress, she seemed to be grateful for his escort.

Well, that was the beginning of it: and the end is not yet. An incident that occurred under a large tree in the old confederate fort on the mountain may give a hint of the trend of events.

Pearce and Miss Moore were under the tree because it was the shelter nearest when the rain suddenly began to fall: and it rained, probably, because a number of young folks of the city had come up on the mountain to spend a September day that promised, in the morning, to be pleasant.

Mr. Pearce was not in good humor. He and Miss Moore had separated themselves from the others. One topic of conversation had led to another, which, in this instance, was a declaration by Mr. Pearce that he was irretrievably in iove with Miss Moore, and that if she forever miserable. At a critical stage of this declaration a raindrop kissed the girl's cheek.

"Oh. it's going to rain!" she cried. The next instant the downpour began. and both rushed through a breach in the earthen wall of the fort to the tree, whose branches, to which the leaves yet clung, offered protection. There they stood in silence for several minutes, she busily brushing raindrops from her hat, which she had taken off, and he watching her, moodily.

The silence became oppressive, and she glanced at him, curiously and apprehensively, from under her lashes. He caught the glance, and, moving toward her, said: "Well?"

"Oh, don't," she exclaimed, starting way, her eyes still fixed upon a ribbon vith which she was working.

"Why, Katherine-er, Miss Moore-" "Oh, you mustn't!"

He wailted to the edge of the circle protected by the leaves and looked out over the clay wall of the fort, down which tiny red rivers ran. She, having dried her hat, placed it again on her head and began brushing her skirt where, here and there, rain had spotted it. She glanced several times at his back, stubbornly turned toward her.

He evinced no intention of moving, nor of speaking again, and she became nervous. The situation was unbearable, and she exclaimed: "We must get back to the others!"

"We can't very well go through this rain." he said, without turning around. Another prolonged silence, broken only by the monotonous fall of the rain. Finally, when she had almost made up her mind to gather up her skirts and run to the botel, a quarter of a mile away, he turned and came quickly toward her. He put out his hand as though to take hers, but sne quickly put her hands behind her and stepped back. He folded has arms and stood before her, looking carnestly into the eyes that she raised to his, almost appealingly.

Katherine," he said, "I love you. Will you be my wife?"

A beautiful color stole slowly from the ribbon at her throat, up. up. until it tinted the edges of her small, perfectly formed ears. His gaze held hers for a moment; then her eyelids fell, and their long lashes swept her cheeks.

"Mr. Pearce," she said, slowly and hesitatingly, "I am sorry, but I-I

"Because you do not love me?" She looked up quickly into his face: then down again; but she did not reply. "Katherine, tell me," he said. "Why is it that you cannot marry me?"

"Decause-" she was very busy dislodging a half-buried stone with the toe of her shoe-"because-because you are a Yankee!" Another swift glance met his steady look. Then she moved a little further away, and stood half turned from him. His first impulse was to laugh. But that passed almost as it came. The gray, brass-buttoned riding habit, the flushed checks and bright eyes with which she had listened to 'Dixie," flashed acrosss his mental vision. The "Yankee" might be an obstacle not to be laughed away. "But I am not a Yankee," he said, with emphasis. "I am from Illinois." It seemed a long time to both tha they stood in silence. Again she was the first to speak.

"This is an awful rain," she said. "Yes, a very wet rain," he replied.

"Oh, you are going to jest about it-"But I am not jesting," he answered, walking rapidly to where she stood. "What I mean is that you will get wet. The water is beginning to drip from the leaves. Here," stripping off his coat "let me put this around you."

"Oh, no," she said, stepping back. "But you must. The air is chill, and f you get wet you will catch cold."

"But you-you-"

"It won't hurt me a bit. Come." He assumed a commanding tone, and hat, or something else, accomplished his end, for she made no effort to free Lerself when he placed the big coat about her shoulders. It took a long time to get it fixed just right, and his arm was still around her when he looked into her face and saw that she was looking up into his. Something in bereyes prompted him to draw her close to him and to say, very tenderly:

"Sweetheart, I come from the north, but I love a southern girl. Don't you think that she can love a northern man just a little-if he is not a Yankee?"" She studied the arrangement of his pecktie closely, and then transferred her scrutiny to his watch chain. But evidently she was not thinking of either, for when she spoke she asked:

"Illinois people aren't Yankees?" "Certainly not," he replied, with conviction. "They are a long way from Yankeedom. More than a thousand reiles."

She examined the necktie again, ooked into his eyes for a moment, then over his shoulder off into the rain. "Katherine," he said, softly, "do you love me?" She turned her head slowly until their eyes met. A wave of color rushed into her cheeks, and she murmured faintly: "Yes." "And you will be my wife?" With perhaps a sudden thought of ner surroundings, and of a stormy day thirty years before, she replied: "I-I surrender!"

The rain, as if to hide from the scene any possible observer, fell more heavily for a moment. Then it ceased altogether, and soon the sun shone through from a blue sky where the gray clouds had parted.-St. Louis Republic.

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper ef forts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts-rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms o sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constituted cond. tion of the system, which the pleasar family laxative, byrup of Figs, trompt-ly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of irmities, and ieverywhere esteemed so highly by at who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internacleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its benefireal effects, to note when you parchase, that you have the genuice arti-cle, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health. and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

PLUCKY WESTERN BOY.

He Herds Cattle on the Cactus Plains of New Mexico.

Only Twelve Years Old, But Has Charge of Three Hundred Unruly Steers-His Success as a Hunter Is Really Phenomenal.

It isn't every boy who can rice s broncho over the escrus plains and herd 300 head of cattle. But this is what Hope Patterson does almost every day of the year. And more than that, he can wriggle along a rocky mountain side like an Indian and pick an anterope from a ledge with his ritle. liope is only 12 years oid. Be lives not far from the little mining town of Gold Hill, in New Mexico. His mother owns a ranch of 160 acres, with an adole house, where she and Hope and 4-year old Jimmy make their bone. It is a little one-story house, says the Chicago Record, and the only things growing about it are thorny caerns plants and chaparral. Lope's father has been dead for some time. He was shot in his own dooryard by a Mexican, and since that time much of the care of the ranch and the herd of 2,000 head of cattle, which roam over miles and miles of country, has fallen upon Hope. The young ranchman owns about 300 cattle in the herd himself, the remainder belonging to his mother.

Even before Hope could walk steadily he was at home on a pony's back, and he has become so plucky a rider that he is known in the country around as "Broncho Hope." Often in the early morning he will mount his pony, Billy-he owns it himself-and ride up the slopes of Little Burro mountains which wall in his home, and help in the herding of the cattle all day long in the hot sunlight. A 50-mile ride in a single day is nothing at all to him. In most of his work he has two cowboys to help him, to say nothing of his dog Leo, who kiows almost as much about heading off or corralling wild young steers as any man.

Two months in the year there is school at Gold Hill, and Hope attends, for he expects some day to own a great many cattle and he wants to be prepared to use his wealth properly.

Hope is also fond of exploring the ruins where the Aztecs once lived, and bringing home wonderful pieces of ancient pottery and queer trinkets.

But it is as a hunter that Hope best likes to be known. He has a rifle all his own, and often he goes up on the lavacovered mountain sides to shoot antelope, or down on the plains where there are rabbits and quail. His most exciting adventure was with a rattlesnake. Rattlesnake's are fond of the hot sun, and the rocks of the Little Eurros, and one day Hope's brother Jimmy wandered away alone. Of course, he didn't know anything about rattlesnakes, and when he saw the mottled body of a huge fellow he was greatly pleased and toddled toward it. Presently there came the sharp, warning rattle, and that pleased him all the more. But Hope heard it, too, and he knew what it meant. Instantly be darted forward to save his little brother. But he was too far away, and the rattlesnake had roiled itself and was preparing to strike. Hope paused only a moment. Then he kneit and drew his rifle to his shoulder. He knew that a false aim might be the death of the child. There was a sharp "bang!" and the head of the snake shot up and then fell back and its body uncoiled on the ground, shattered and torn. And Jimmy's life was

Who Can Even Scribble. "Dad" Price, the secretary of the police department, tells this story on himself. It may have been an encient one that the young man heard somewhere on his travels, but it sounds all right. He says he was sitting at his desk one day signing some papers, and he was in such a hurry that he was not doing his very best. In fact, he was writing a wretched hand. A railroad man with grease on his face and warts on his hands entered. He said nothing for awhile, but just stood and watched Mr. Price write. Finally he said in a

MISERY IN A DRESS SUIT. Wretched Condition of a Gawky Young

Man in Hired Garmonts. He was gawky, sandy and longnecked; he was bow-legged and limberjointed; in short, he was a man whom nature never intended for dress parade, and he knew it. Only one person besides his wife ever said he was handsome, and that was a spinster who had had some poems accepted by magazines, and her opinion was hardly worth the atmosphere used in expressing it. And get, when our friend's lodge was to have a reception, banquet and ball his wife arged him to wear a dress suit. In a moment of groundless vanity he assented and reuted a full evening dress outfit. Then his trouble began.

When he tried on the suit at the clothing store the coat lapels flared and wrinkled the shoulders. Accordingly, the accommodating salesman pinned the lower corner of the coat front to the bottom of the vest. The latter garment had an unusually large opening in front, the whole garment containing just enough goods to make a watch guard. When he got the whole suit on he felt like anything but a happy man, but the feeling would wear off, he told himself. It never did. When he bore the precious bundle homeward he was prouder than many men who owned dress suits instead of renting

The wife went to the hairdresser, leaving the husband to the glories of his dress suit. After a violent and manful struggle he succeeded in getting into the trousers. He owned no patent teathers, and his calfskin shoes with a coat of liquid dressing that refused to shine over ordinary blacking, looked as if they had been dipped in ink. This "domestic finish" added nothing in the way of comfort. Then came the shirt.

Just as he had got that freshly laundered garment well adjusted a cold perspiration broke out all over the victim's person as he noticed the narrowness of the bosom. A horrid possibility he dared not even mentally express dawned upon him. But it was the only clean shirt he owned. Collar and a three-for-a-quarter white bow were the next essentials, and then that dreadful horse-collar vest. It was as he had expected: The shirt bosom was two inches too narrow for the vest opening! He at last decided to pull the vest down, narrowing the vent, and pin the bottom to the trousers. (It was nearly time to go, and the heroic measures were necessary.) But this made the waistband of the trousers peer up over the top button of that religion-destroying vest. He shed tears, and would have fain done likewise with the vest. He put a handkerchief there to hide the waistband. That was better. The coat once on and duly pinned at the corners, he called at the hairdresser's for his wife. He was brave beneath the shelter of his ulster.

When they arrived at the hall and separated for the cloak-rooms, all the pins came out of the patched-up rigging. He fastened in a carnation to hide part of his unlaundried muslin. He also made the cheering discovery that in festooning his hardkerchief over the ambitious waistband he had made a great exhibition of the only dirty spot on that cotton square. More ice-water persoiretion; and he sank into the nearest chair. As he did so, his vest front spread, showing three inches of shirt and a suspender buckle on each side of that precious shirt bosom. He pulled the coat lapels together and wanted to go home. But there sat his wife, with pretty blue chilfon at neck and sleeves of her one Sunday dress, her hair nicely urranged, a huge bunch of carnations on her breast and a peaceful smile on her five. She looked up, caught sight of the funny look of suffering on his face, and laughed. Then he was mad. He felt that his wife and dress suit were conspiring to drive him to drink. This, dear reader, takes the man only to nine o'clock in the evening. It was 12:30 before his wife wanted to go home. The intervening period is one of agony too deep to be depicted with pen and ink. The next full dress affair he attended he wore a pair fo light trousers, sack coat, sat with his knees crossed and envied no man.

He had been a man out of his element. Under such eireumstances all men are miserable.-Indianapolis Jour-

Labor of Mountain Climbing.

Below is a curious calculation on the amount of energy expended by a person weighing 165 pounds in climbing a mountain peak 7,000 feet high, the time allowed for the ascent being five hours: By careful calculation it is found that the total amount of labor performed is equal to raising 1,380,000 pounds to a height of 1,380,000 feet. Of this enormous amount of work 1,176,000 footpounds is expended by the muscles of the legs in raising or lifting the body. 12,000 by the heart in circulating the blood, 30,000 by the chest in breathing and 54,000 in the various exertions of halancing the body, overcoming friction of the ground, etc.

Under the new factory inspection law any employer is liable to heavy penalties if he gives work to children who are not provided with certificates from the loca-Health Board that they are over sixteen years of age. Experiences under the old law showed that, in their anxiety to obtain work, children very often overstated their ages, and that in these misstatements they were backed up by their parents, so that the law was practically nullified.

The esteemed Newburgh News and the equally esteemed Newburgh Journal are "scrapping" as to which is the stauncher in its Republicanism. The situation, as we gather it from a careful perusal of both papers, is that the Journal hasn't burned an ink-barrel in honor of Me-Kinley's nomination and it therefore being read out of the party by the News, while the Journal faucies it has already tumbled the News over the breastworks because of some uncomplimentary things it said about McKinley before his nomi

The Republican National Executive Committee, which will supervise and direct the campaign, has been selected by Hanna and McKinley. Of the nine members all but two are millionaires. Thomas Dolan, who was President of the Manufacturers (lub of Philadelphia and who helped raise the $400,000 fund which made Harrison's election possible in 1888, will be treasurer of the committee and is expected to again "fry the fat" out of the Eastern manufacturers. Evidently Hanna proposes to run the campaign on strictly "business" prin-

The platform adopted by the New York Democrats, vesterday, is as outspoken for the maintenance of the gold standard as words can make it, and yet it holds forth an olive branch to the silver delegates of the South and West and makes it possible for New York's delegates to meet them on amicable terms. The only hope of staying the free silver tide at Chicago is through appeals to reason, to interest, to patriotism and to party loyalty, and the foundation for such appeals is laid deep and strong in the New York Democracy's pledge to join heart and hand in every effort to bring about international bimetallism the only way in which silver can be permanently restored to its place as one of the world's measures of value.

In the speech's that McKinley has made since his nomination he has had much to say about protection, but ha continued to keep silent as to the currency. He does not seem to realize that the progress of events has subordinated the tariff question to that of honest money, and seems fatuous enough to believe that he can make the issue of the campaign what he pleases and make the catchwords "protection and prosperity" the rallying cry for his party. If McKinley has one-tenth the grasp on affairs his admirers credit him with, he must realize that every hope and every promise of prosperity as a result or tariff changes that is offered during the campaign is a false pretense. The free silver defection from the Republican party has destroyed every poss'b.lity of tariff legislation. The free silver Senators will consent to no legislation in the interest of eastern manuiacturers that does not make provision for the interests of western mine owners. and without their votes no tariff bill can

Fast Time by a Son of Polonius.

Page, a bay golding by J. C. Howland's Polonius, has been doing some sensational trotting at the Boston tracks lately. He trotted three heats in the 2:40 class in 2:194, 2:154 and 2:15 and yesterday won another 2:40 class race in 2:23%, 2:24% and 2:24%. The horse was driven on the road last summer by T. S. Durland, of Chester, and trotted his maiden race at Goshen last fall in 2:23. The horse was then sold for $1.500.

Strange Mishap to an Eric Engineer.

Erie Engineer H. M. Palmer had one of the veins of his arm-severed, yesterday morning, at Gaymard, by a fragment of glass from the water gnage which burst when his arm happened to be almost against it. He was taken to the Port Jervis hospital for treatment,

A Deputy Factory Inspector in Town.

William E. Tibbs, Deputy Factory Inspector, was in this city, to-day, inspecting factories, work shops, printing offices and other places where labor is employed. It is understood that he found the law's requirements complied with in most of the establishments that he visited but that in some he dictated certain changes that must be made.

Postponed on Account of Rain,

The commencement exercises of St. Joseph's Parochial School which were to have been hild this afternoon, have been postponed on account of the rain.

This Should Be Stopped at Once.

We are reliably informed that boys were seen buthing in the fountain in Thrall Park, to-day. The urchins were not provided with bathing suits.

A FAMILY REUNION.

A House-Warming by Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Wilcox in Honor of the Birthday of the Latter's Father.

The fine new residence of Mr. and Mrs H. K. Wilcox, on Grove street, was given a "house-warming." yesterday, in honor of the seventy-eighth birthday of Mrs. Wilcox's father, Col. George D. Wheeler of Deposit. All the members of the family were present, as follows: Mrs. A. J. Wheeler, Mrs. A. L. Knapp, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Cannon and children, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Wheeler and children, Mr. C. A. Wheeler and Mr. A. W. Knapp, all of

It is needless to say that the company was most delightfully entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Wilcox, and that this "house warming" will long be remembered as one of the pleasantest events in the famly's history.

The party will not break up until tomorrow, and Mr. and Mrs. Wilcox have arranged for a trip to the Asylum and to Goshen in a special car, this afternoon, with a stop at Midway Park for supper.

M'KINLEY'S "FOOL" DOLLAR. From the Brooklyn Citizen.

The only reference to the money question which McKinley has thus far veutured to make takes the form of a declar ation that he wishes to have labor re ceive "a full dollar for a full day's work." The average working man is pretty certain to inform the Major that the kind of dollar referred to in such vague terms will be much more accurately described as fool than full. It will be discovered before the campaign is very old that the number of voters in the United States who are foolish enough to accept fifty cents' worth of silver as the equivalent of a hundred cents in gold is not large.

HE'S A FRAUD! LOOK OUT FOR HIM!

We desire to caution the public against an unscrupulous fellow who sells Flavoring Extracts and Perfumery by measure from house to house. He pretends to represent us, and that the Flavors and other articles are of our manufacture. Beware of him! His story is absolutely false. Neither his Flavoring Extracts nor his Perfumes are of our manufacture, and it is only an attempt by him to sell inferior goods on the reputation which our Flavors have won by many years of merit and purity. Some respectable peddlers sell our Flavors and Perfumes, and never in bulk.

To obtain the genuine Premium Fruit Flavors buy them only in our regular bottles (our name blown in the glass) with our label, and each bottle wrapped in our carton.

CLASS DAY EXERCISES.

BY MEMBERS OF THE GRADUATING CLASS OF WALLKILL ACADEMY.

interesting Exercises in the Presence of Many Spectators-Class History, Poem. Statistics and Prophesy-Addresses by the Class President and Others.

The class day exercises of the graduating class of Wallkill Academy was held, this afternoon, in the presence of a very large, assemblage of students and their friends, every seat in the large assembly room of the temporary academy being occupied. The room was most beautifully decorated with cut flowers.

The exercises were unusually interesting and the efforts of the members of the class who participated were of a very high order, showing that they had been prepared with much care. The programme was as follows:

- Latin Salutatory
   D. Albert Ketchum
   Address.
   Claude G. Craus.

- 5. Class Poem Charlotte M. Wells.
- 6. Class Statistics Persis J. Nearing.

- S. Address Prof. Win. A. Wilson.
  9. German Poem.
  Mande B. Wheeler.

- 15. Valedictory Julia H. Denton.

The respanse to Miss Mills's address to the undergraduates was made by Harry D. Wood.

THE CLASS PROPHECY.

The class prophecy of Miss Eloise Harding was an admirable paper not only in the remarkable imagination of its author but in the excellence of its composition. We regret that we can not publish it in full but time and space will not permit. The following outline will show the reader how she reads the future of her classmates:

The prophetess finds herself before a zlorious golden stairway, winding spirally up and up, and climbing higher and higher, until its summit was hidden among the clouds. On the first step sat a Strange looking, gray haired man, and while he held in one hand a scythe, he pointed with the other to the stairs and said: "Here you behold the spiral of the years and before you rises the golden future. Each step represents a year, and if you will but mount, the future will be clear." Without delay she commenced the ascent, and journeyed upward until 'Old Father Time' was left far behind. The first thing visible in this new world was a staring red and green signboard. which was suspended before the door of an odd looking building, proclaimed in letters of a hideous brown that Madame Leanon, the celebrated gypsy fortune teller and clairvoyant, dwelt within.

Following its directions I found myself Hill. The new line will be half a mile in the presence of a strange, wild looking woman, whom despite her flowing black hair and fantastic attire. I was able to recognize as Miss Olive Leemon, the gypsy queen of the recent kirmess, and commonly known as "a baseball enthusiast." Guided by the gypsy queen the prophetess found Wm. G. Decker, "distingrished for his long hair and stride." established in a magnificent structure which he had endowed as a home for fresh air children and in " which he himselfacts as matron." The windows of this home can never be close! so that even in midwinter the children shall never lack for fresh air.

She next visits a colloss I music hall where a single w man held the vast andience spellbound with her violin and bow. The musician is Miss Charlotte Wells, whose brilliant talent the gypsy informs her h s set the world on fire. The demand for her pictures is so great that she was forced to take into partnership a certain North street photog-

In a weather beaten old castle, built after the feudal style the prophetess finds "a tall, bony spinster polishing with all her might a pile of Pennsylvania military buttons, while the walls of the great armonial hall is lined with military hat pins." The spinster is Miss Persis -Mrs. Gilbert Beebe is ill with an at- Jane Nearing, who after her graduation tack of measles, at Pine Island, where determined to devote her lie to accummulating these trophies.

She next meets in a field of waving, golden corn a man and a woman. On the breast of the woman is a brazing medal. The woman is Miss Lucila B. Conkling, whose appeal for the Eddian corn at the graduating exercises induced the government to adopt the plant as the national emblem and present her with the medal. The man, whose "hair is the color of corn silk," was Mr. Cornelius Haskins, whom she married because he knew so much about raising corn.

Mr. Merritt I. Beers, she finds standing mon a wild and desert shore, a pale, emaciated missionary, whose every word s received with many expressions of delight by the half-naked savages who surrounded him. He spent his life among the cannibals of the Fiji Islands.

The prophetess is amazed at the sight of a being loaded with manuscripts, with ink-stained fingers and unkempt hair flowing in the wind. The being was Miss Mary Bradley, a fame-crowned novelist, whose books have been translated into every known language and dialect. She was obliged to work from sunrise to sunset to supply the demand for her works. Miss Lillian Gibbs she finds in a stately took to "tapping rocks" and at Otis-ville discovered gold in immense quantities. Prince Alexander, of Servia, was in America searching for a rich wife and hearing of Miss Gibbs' good fortune, wooed and won her and carried her off to his native land.

Mr. Claude Granville Crane, whose orations and presentation speeches, made him the pride of "Winchester University," she finds in the United States Senate, "with moving eloquence and stirring pathos, with all the arts of oratory, speaking for the Monroe Doc-

Twenty women on bieyeles whirl by and "one bloomered female" leads them all. She is Miss Murgaret C. Mills, the ster bicyclist of the world whose name is known from pole to pole. She learned to ride on Highland avenue.

Miss Marion Rorty she finds married and settled on a farm, near Montgomery. She is in the hay field skillfully wielding an immense pitchfork.

Leonard Seamen and Bert Ketchum she discover as proprietors of a mam moth clothing store in a large ci.y. Miss Mand B. Wheeler becomes a fashionable modiste and superintends the making of the dresses of queens and princesses. So great is her talent for this work that she is able to fortell the fashions five years in advance.

With a glimdse of Julia Denton "the only vassar girl in the class" as the head of the New Hampton female seminary, where elecution and military tacries are specially taught, the phropheress's strange companion disappears and the phrophetess returns from the "enchant ing future into the prosaic present."

A BRIDAL COUPLE'S TRUNK.

The Most Gorgeously Decorated Piece of Bayyage That Ever Came from Port

A trunk arrived in this city, last night, that attracted a great deal of attention and told the story of a very recent marriage. It was checked from Port Jervis and the owners are probably one of five couples who were married in that village, last evening.

The friends of the young couple had decorated the trunk in great style. Over the top was a piece of brown paper, with the word, "Drop us at Midway" painted thereon: a broad white ribbon was passed around the sides and ends and tied in a big bow and on the end of the bow were the words, "Remember P. J." On the front of the ribbon were the words. 'Just Married.'

An old shoe was tied to each handle, and for fear the trunk had not been made sufficiently conspicuou, bunting and other decorations were added, until it is safe to say that it was the most gorgeous piece of baggage that ever left Port

Instituted a Woman's Auxiliary to the 🕏

Mrs. W. H. Wood, of this city, instituted a woman's auxiliary to Col. Dickey Camp. S. of V., of Newburgh, Tuesday evening. The auxiliary starts with a good membership and every promise of a useful career. After the officers had been installed, several addresses were made one of the speakers being James R Avery, of Gen. Lyon Post.

Souvenirs of the Old Academy.

F. D. Kernochan, the jeweler, has received a stock of souvenir spoons of the old Wallkill Academy. They are both tea and tablespoons and are very handsome. There is an excellent picture or the old building with the words, "Wallkill Academy, Middletown, N. Y.," engraved on the inside of the bowl.

Opening of Columbia Park.

The proprietors of Columbia Park were unfortunate in selecting to-day for the opening day as the weather is such that the attendance is light. The orchestra will be there however, this evening, and as there is imple room in the large half, those who are present will be sure of having a good time.

FINE X RAY PHOTOGRAPHS.

A Most Interesting Exhibition of Harry C. Ozden's Work The X ray photographs taken by Harry C. Ogden and exhibited in the window of J. T. King's drug store attract a great deal of attention. They are very sharp and distinct and are much superior to those shown at the electrical exhibition in New York and to those displayed by New York photographers who have experimented with the X rays. Perhaps the most interesting photograph in Mr. Ogden's collection is that of a rat, every bone of which is distinctly shown.

The photographs are well worth going far out of you way to see and constitute the most interesting window exhibit ever made in this city.

k Foundation for a Fish Lie.

A well known newspaper man who went fishing, yesterday morning, and returned about noon, left his creef with a friend while be attended to a little business. Curiosity led the friend to peep into the basket, and his surprise may be imagined when he saw a well salted herring nicely packed away in grass, and nothing more. That herring doubtless served as the foundation for a first class fish lie when the newspaper man reached home.

DR. BEATRICE SCHULTZ.

Claims to Be a Descendant of Toussaint l'Ouverture.

She Is Also Related to Autonio Macco, the Famous Cuban Revolutionary Leader - Very Popular in Chicago, Her Present Home.

Dr. Beatrice Schultz, in whose veins flows the blood of Toussaint l'Ouverture, the once celebrated black chieftain of Bayti, and of Antonio Maceo, the Cuban insurgent leader, is the finest pistol shot among her people in Chicago, and is an elocutionst, writer and social leader as well. As a marksman she can hit the buil's-eye ten times in succession at 100 feet; can throw a tin can in the air and send five bullets through it ere it reaches the ground, and shoot holes in a dime at ten paces distance. She can take a revolver in each hand and send two bullets simultaneously inside the center ring of a target at 30 paces. She can break glass balls and shoot birds on the wing, only she says she doesn't like to kill the birds. And once, she says, she frightened a flying footpad nearly out of his wits by sending a few bullets through his garments after he had made a dismal failure of an attempt to hold

Her love for marksmanship, Dr. Schultz feels, is an inheritance from her great ancestor, L'Ouverture, from whom she is descended on the mother's side. Antonio Maceo, she says, has also the blood of L'Ouverture in his viens, for a part of the Roupe family, to which L'Ouverture was related, removed to Cuba and intermarried with the Maceos. Dr. Schultz' mother was a Roupe. and was part Indian. She married M. Cartier, a wealthy French planter, in San Domingo, and removed to Washington, D. C., where she still resides, and where Dr. Schultz was born. Mme. Cartier has a locket which once belonged to L'Ouverture's wife. It contains the only photograph of L'Ouverture in the United States.

Dr. Schultz is a tall, handsome woman, nearly white, and with blonde hair. Yet, in her large eyes and prominent nose can be distinguished a resemblance to her negro ancestor, Toussaint l'Ouverture. She is 26 years old. Her education was obtained at the Howard university, at Washington, and at the Fisk university at Nashville, Tenn. She afterward took a course of study in a medical college in Chicago. She speaks French, and is a skilled planist. She married a New Orleans business man when she was only 18, and has one child, a boy of eight years. As an elocutionist she is clever, and in her school days won several prizes through her ability in that art. Her passionate love for the dramatic art led her to study many of the best things in English literature, and finally to take a special course of dramatic training. preparatory to a professional stage career; but the realization of her dream was prevented by her early marriage. Her husband died four years ago, and she has since devoted herself to the study and practice of medicine. She writes poetry, and is writing a novel on heredity. Her family owns valuable property in Washington.

Although she has only lived in Chieago during the last three years, Dr Schultz is, according to the Inter Ocean well known among her people here, and is prominent socially. For several months she was matron of Provident hospital, and when she resigned her position a year ago the colored physicians of the city gave a superior entertainment for her benefit at Bethel church. Dr. Schultz resides on Armous avenue, near Thirty-Fifth street. She enjoys a good practice, much of which is among white people.

Heredity of Alcoholism.

A German case that resembles that of the famous Jukes family has recent ly been reported by Prof. Pellman, of Bonn, who has traced the cancers of 709 of the 834 known descendants o a German woman, a drunkard and a thief, who was born in 1740. Of her descendants 106 were born out of wed. lock, 208 were professional beggars, 181 lewd women, 76-including sever murderers-got into jail; in 75 years these persons have cost the state more than $1,200,000. Prof. Pellman has gathered these statistics to prove the injurious effects of elcohol, but they seem to show that it does not diminish fecundity, and that the proportion of children reaching maturity is far above the average.

It is Said to Have Grown to the R light of Twelve Feet.

There was a cabbage plant at the Ohio state fair a few years ago which took the prize as being the bighest known to have grown in the world. It was seven feet tall, but California, famous for the size of almost everything it grows, now comes to the front with a cabbage plant over 12 feet high. This giant plant was grown in the gardens of the agricultural department of the state university at Berkeley. It is not of the ordinary variety made so familiar to American tables in its intimacy with corned beef, but of the species known as colewart or kale. The difference between them lies chiefly in the fact that the leaves of the kale. while wrinkled like the cabbage, do not follow the latter in forming a solid head.

The sprouts of the kale are edible, and taste much like those of the cabbage. However, in its native habitat, the Isle of Jersey, its leaves are used to feed the diminutive cows that have aided to render the name of Jersey a farmyard word all over the world. The Califormian experimenter finds that the succulent green leaves are much relished by chickens, and a point in favor of the plant is that it produces green leaves the year round.

The Ferkeley monstrosity has taken nine months to reach its present height. Its stock is not so large as a man's waist at the root, and tapers gradually to the seed branches, ten feet from the ground. To this height the stem has been stripped of its leaves, rendering its resemblance to a hickory sapling very remarkable. The top is surmounted by feathery bunches of small yellow flowers.

Joseph Clay Stiles Blackburn, candidate of the Kentucky democracy for the presidency of the United States, is a Kentuckian of kaleidoscopic color. Chivalrous, bold, keen-witted, gentle, forbearing, he is the material out of which a thousand anecdotes have been wrought. Not all of them are Blackburnian, but they wear well and his romantic name carries them bravely. He is a native son of Kentucky, and the mention of his name calls up visions of rolling blue grass country, soft hats, broad accent, bourbon, and the finest stock farms in the world. His father was a breeder of thoroughbreds, but Newburgh Office, 76 Broadway. Joseph took to the law. He spent two years in Chicago and returned to the south in 1860. How he was an elector on the Breckinridge and Lane ticket, joined the army, went to Arkansas and planted cotton, returned to his home and became a legislator, went to con-things written in the books of history of Kentucky? Along in 1889 Senator Blackburn had a personal lencounter with Senator Chandler, which brought the New England politician into prominence. Senator Chandler, in a meeting of the committee on Indian trade ships, unfortunately referred to the Kentuckian as a "slave driver." Whereupon Mr. Blackburn wrapped his hand around Mr. Chandler's ear and swung the small body of the New Hampshire man around the room as if he had been a rag baby. There was no duel. Kentucky's candidate will make a splendid opponent to Mr. Bland, of Missouri.

BIG FIRES!

Great Fires Are Constantly Burning.

Still They Will Go Out in Time if Not Replenished-Food is Fuel for the Body.

History records the occurrence of most disastrous fires. A few times our own country has been visited in this way with tremendous force. Yet how insignificant they seem when compared to the raging fires of the sun. A recent writer in one of our monthly journals, illustrates the enormous heat which the sun gives out, as follows: he says that if all the coal which exists on this globe could be placed in one mass, and then immediately burned up, it would not produce as much heat as the sun throws off into space in one-tenth of a second. Of course, we cannot comprehend what this means, But there is another fire constantly burning, of which many of us are not aware, although we live very close

We all know that the human body is warmer than the surrounding atmosphere; while during cold weather the difference is very marked. What keeps the body warm? Because it is constantly burning up.

We replenish the fire in the stove by adding more coal or wood. The oxygen of the air unites with this fuel and heat is produced. The fuel for the body is our food; and the oxygen obtained from the air we breathe combines with it and heat is produced. This heat is constantly escaping from the skin. During summer we dress lightly to aid its escape. During winter we put on flannels, because wool is not a good conductor of heat, and will not allow it to escape so freely from the surface of the body.

If a person is plamp in flesh, that is, if he has a layer of fat just beneath the skin, he has a medium which holds in the heat of the body, as a layer of wool does when placed on the outside of the skin. Persons who are plump in flesh do not shiver with every cool, invigorating breeze. Neither do they require so much food, for as the heat cannot escape so readily, so it is not necessary to add as much fuel. Plumpness means protection; defense against coughs and colds; shelter for an escape from neuralgia and sciatica; a shield to throw off nervous prostration: better security from the germs of consumption; an escape from a thousand aches and pains which cling to a body that is poorly nourished. Plumpness is presperity, thrift, good nature, hap-

The Photographer's Revenge.

A dandy went to a photographer to get his picture taken. When the job was done he refused to pay, on the ground that the picture did not look like him, and he left the establishment. Next morning he passed by the place, and saw his picture hanging in the showcase, and under it were the startling words, in big letters:

"The biggest fool in the whole town." He rushed into the shop and abused the photographer.

"But my dear sir," sail the latter, "since the picture doesn't resemble you, what in the world are you complaining about?"-Tit-Bits.

To Make Suge.

The little four-year-old daughter of a North-sid-r knelt to say her prayers the other evening.

After invoking a blessing on all the members of the family she wound up "And bless Mr. Hicksworthy. Amen." Then she rose up, but immediately knelt down again. "I don't mean Mr. Hicksworthy that think he's so smart, Lord, but the Wilkin-Purdy. The residence of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Purdy was the scene of a merry wedding, at 7 o'clock last evening, when their daughter, Miss Carrie Lamart, was united in marriage with George Krum

The parlors were handsomely decorated with palms, harrel and roses; the stair rail in the hall was covered with Jaurel, and the table in the dining room was decorated with smilax and bouquets of cut flowers were distributed throughout the rooms, filling them with their sweet odors. The decorations were by Lorentz, the florist.

The young couple stood during the ceremony in front of a bank of palms and under a bell made of laurel and pink roses, upon which perched a white dove. The officiating clergyman was Rev. David Evans, rector of Grace Church, who read the beautiful and impressive marriage service of the Episcopal Church.

A wedding murch was played by Miss Etta Austin, of Unionville, as the bridal party entered the front parlors and took their places under the bell. The bride's sister, Miss Annie Purdy, was the bridesmaid, her cousin, Miss May McLaughlin, of New York, was maid of honor, Ira Moore was best man, and A. C. Thompson and John Falkenbury were the ush-

The bride was gowned in white brocaded silk, with chiffon and ribbon trimmings, and carried a bouquet of white rose buds. The bridesmaid wore a dress of white organdie and carried pink roses. The maid of honor wore white silk with lace and pearl trimmings, and carried a basket of roses in one hand and in the other a silver tray, on which was the wedding ring. On the tray were stamped a horse shoe and the words "Good Luck

After the coremony and the congratulations a wedding supper was served, and a pleasant social time was had until 10 o'clock, whea Mr. and Mrs. Wilkin bade good bye to the guests and propared for their departure on the Wells-Fargo Express for Asbury Park.

There were about 100 guests present, those from out of town being James Gardner, Mrs. P. Mooney, Mrs. T. Me-Cormick, Mrs. J. McCabe and Miss May McLaughlin, of New York, and Mrs. J. O. Austin and Miss Ethn Austin, of Union-

The bride is the yougest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pardy. She is a young lady of pleasing manners, intelligent; accomplished, and is held in high esteem by those who know her best. Her hold upon the affections of her briends was shown by the large array of beautiful and costly presents received on this occa-

The groom was formerly manager of the Postal Telegraph office in this city, but is now manager for the same company at Asbury Park, where he holds a much more responsible and hierarive nosition. He is a young man of excellent character and sterling worth, and during BURGLARS AT WORK IN WARWICK läs residence here made a host of friends. He is still a member of Monliagen Hose Company, and one of the most popular members of that very popular organiza-

The Argus extends to Mr. and Mrs. Wilkin its heartiest congratulations and carnest wishes for their tuture lappiness and prosperity.

Louisberry-Carter.

William Lounsberry and Susie M. daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Carter, were married at the home of the bride's parents, No. 7 Mills avenue, last evening, in the presence of about 100 relatives and friends. The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock by Rev. F. L. Wilson, D. D., of St. Paul's M. E. Church.

The bridal party entered the parlor to the strains of a wedding march played by Miss Ida Kirby and took their places under a beautiful bell of daisies suspended from an arch of evergreens. The bride was aftend d by her nice. Mabel Carter, and Cara Waring as maids of honor.

She was most becomingly attired in white silk with chiffon trimming and carried a beautiful bouquet of yellow

The friends of the bride gave very substantial tokens of affection and esteem by presenting her with many beautiful and useful wedding gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Louisberry will for the present make their home with the bride; Tarrents.

Among the grests from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Louisherry, grandparents of the groom; Mrs. C. F. Barth, Weshawken: Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Fuller, New York: Mr. and Mrs. D. Kirby, Mr. and Mrs. C. Carter, Johnson; Joseph Louisberry, Verbank; Arthur Load sherry, Monatainville; Miss Mand Louisberry, Plattekill; Mr. and Mrs. Cartis Carter, Slate IIII; Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Wering and Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Oakley, Newtengh.

DR. ROBINSON IN ENGLAND.

Writes to Mr. C. H. Han ford of the Warm Welcome Given Him and His Party-Comes in for Many Honors.

Mr. C. H. Hanford received, this mornng, the following very interesting letter from Rev. Dr. W. A. Robinson, pastor of the First Congregational Church, who is now in England as a delegate to the International Congregational Council:

ROUGEMONT HOTEL, EXETER.) Senday, June 14, 1896.) My Dear Mr. Hanford:—I seize a few moments, this evening, to write a word to you and to send by you my salatations tomy friends whom you may meet. We had a swift and reasonably comfortable ocean voyage, reaching Plymonth early dast Thursday morning. We were met by a deputation of elergymen and citizens, who in most cordial way gave us welcome to their historic

Plymouth la'd itself out to do us honor, and made our stay one memorable for its especial opportunities and enjoyments. "The Mayor and Mayoress," to use the English terms, gave us a public reception in their magnificent guildhall.

Your pastor was one of the members of our party designated to make response to the Mayor's words of greeting. He also had the honor of being invited by the Mayor to a carriage drive of several miles into the beautiful Devonshire country. Only three of us had this chance and it was well worth while.

Last evening we arrived at this quiet and beautiful cathedral city. We had a reception at the cathedral, being wel- on his vacation, Monday evening. comed by Canon Atherton, and then shown over the build ng by Canon Edmuuds, who gave a most instructive and ateresting talk at different points upon the history end architecture of this cathedral which, in part, dates back to A. D.

We had our dinner at 8 o'clock and then hurried off to the Congregational | Rev. J. Lavelle, whose remarks were Church, where a most enthusiastic welcome was given us. Again I was one who had to "talk back." We got to our rooms about 11 p. m. This morning I attended the Congregational church, having stoutly refused all invitations to preach. This afternoon, at 3 o'clock, I attended the Cathedral choral service, which was superb. I am tired enough to-night to "rest according to the commandment." We mean to make an early start, to-morrow, going to Wells by 7:45

Mrs. R. stands the trip well so far. I have not been quite "up to par" for two days past, but am better to-day. I often think of you all and send up my prayers to heaven that the choicest blessings may aftend you all. The memory of the loving Godspeed given us as we left Middletown abides still. The flowers that beautified our state room lasted, some of them, till we left the steamer. The cheer they brought will not die so soon. Your friend and pastor,

WM. A. Robinson.

Unsuccessful Attempt to Blow Open Conklin & Strong's Safe—A Tramp Saspected of the Crime Arrested at Grey-

The office of Conklin & Strong, dealers in humber, coal, feed, etc., at Warwick. vasentered by burglars, last night, and an attempt was made to blow open the safe. It did not succeed, however, and the burglass were apparently frightened away. Nothing has been missed except a box of eigars.

Our Greycourt correspondent writes that two tramps, who boarded an Eric freight train at that station were recognized by Conductor Lippincott, of the Lehigh and Hudson, as answering the description of two men, who laid been seen in Warwick, last night, and who were suspected of the burglary. The freight stopped below Greycourt station and officer Enos Demny and Mr. Lippincott went after the tramps. When the officer affempted to arrest one of them, the fellow drew a revolver, but the officer knocked him down and disarmed him. The other tramp escaped, running in the direction of Craigville. The prisoner was brought to Greycourt and Warwick authorities notified of the arrest.
